Christie Civetta Joins British Powerlifting Board as Independent Director

British Powerlifting is delighted to announce the appointment of Christie Civetta as an independent director to the organisation's board. Christie Civetta has been working in the revenue generation and fundraising world for the last decade. She currently owns a boutique consultancy firm that specialises in supporting impact-driven organisations in building their commercial strategy around non-dilutive funding streams. To date, she has raised over $60M in funding for her clients. Christie is also an active competitor in British Powerlifting and holds seven British Equipped National Champion titles.

In her role as an independent director, Christie Civetta will contribute to shaping British Powerlifting's strategic initiatives, governance practices, and initiatives aimed at promoting diversity and inclusion within the sport, while also bringing her valuable experience in securing grants for organisations.
